

JOB VACANCY

Location: Ipswich, Suffolk, UK

Experienced Electronics Engineer

Located on the River Orwell, Fox's Marina & Boatyard is one of the UK's leading yacht refit and repair centres uniquely positioned to provide a comprehensive array of marine services. We are not just a workplace we are a hub of maritime expertise and passion.

Our in-house electronics team allow us to offer a comprehensive service in all areas of marine electronics. With an unrivalled level of experience in all types of craft and their systems, including power, sail, private, and commercial vessels, our qualified marine engineers offer installation, integration and full-service support for the leading names in marine electronics.

This busy department is on the lookout for an experienced Marine Engineer.

If you fulfil either of the criteria below we would love to hear from you.

Experienced Marine Engineer:

- Up-to-date knowledge of marine electronics systems
- Experience in blah blah
- Good communication skills – written and verbal
- Solid organisational skills with the ability to multi-task
- Physically fit - able to work inside and out on vessels ashore and afloat
- Comfortable working at height
- Team player with the ability to work alone when required
- Proven experience in the marine industry is preferred

40 hours per week - but flexible working hours considered.

Remuneration details and further information upon application.

If you are interested in either of these positions call us today on 07764 977874 or if you prefer the written route, please email rebecca.moll@foxsmarina.com.
